HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1911.

No. 130.

ME TO HOPKINSVILLE FOR NEWEST THINGS

at Aviation Meet Will Bring 20,000 or More People To the Livelist Baby in the Whole Bunch.

EYES WILL BE SORE FROM LOOKING UP

The great Aviation Meet in the Sulphur, Farm Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week is expected to be the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted in this part of Kentucky or Tennessee, and the equal of those pulled off in the larger cities.
Contracts have all been signed and arrangements for the event are now going ahead rapidly.

Members of the Committee are visiting all neighboring towns in automobiles and scattering advertising literature far and wide.

The aviators will be Jimmy Ward, one of the foremost demonstrators of the aeroplane in this country and one of the recent starters in the coast to coast flight; Judge C. O.
Prowse, a native of this city, who has been in St. Louis for several months studying aeronautics and perfecting a machine which he invented, and his associate, A. H. Lockwood, who is an expert in making flights. Six flights will be made each afternoon and these will be so varied as to thoroughly demonstrate the flying machines.

The meet is being put on by the business men of the town. Their object is not financial gain, but for the purpose of further advertising Hopkinsville and attracting large crowds.
Before signing contracts the business men pledged themselves for cash subscriptions to make up the guarantee fund that will have to be paid in case the weather should be unfavorable, and in addition guarantee tickets are being bought by the individual citizens.

To a certain degree the meet will be in the nature of an official coming out party to Judge Prowse. He invented his machine, the chief feature of which is an automatic balancing apparatus, while he held the office of county judge here and he went to St. Louis last February to perfect and test his invention and to learn the art of flying. He has never yet given a public exhibition, but has qualified as an aviator and an enthusiastic reception will be given him here in his home-town.

Yesterday a delegation of a dozen citizens went to the Big Stock Show and Good Roads meeting at Big Rock, Tenn., scattering literature along the route and boosting Hopkinsville and its latest big undertaking. The Aviation Committee has opened headquarters in the Hill building and every night there is great activity in completing the arrangements for what is undoubtedly Hopkinsville's greatest enterprise.

No city of Hopkinsville's size has ever placed itself in a class with the largest cities in the country. All eyes are turned on the city that stops at nothing and dares to do real things.

REV. F. M. RAINS

Chief Speaker at Congregational Rally Nov. 5.

A Congregational Rally of the Ninth Street Christian church of quite exceptional interest is being gotten ready for. Rev. F. M. Rains L. L. D., is to be the chief speaker of this notable occasion. Dr. Rains is a speaker known among disciples in this land and in all the world as a great leader and a speaker of power.
He has just returned from his second journey around the world. Both of these journeys were made for the purpose of studying existing conditions—social, political, commercial and others, in foreign countries, with special reference, of course, to the progress of the Gospel. Dr. Rains will speak both in the morning and at night on the day of the Rally, which will be Sunday, Nov. 5th. A chief concern of the day is to draw together as many members of the numerous churches as may be possible, but all will be heartily welcome.

YOUNG MAN

Passes Away After Painful Illness.

Shelby M. Hill, son of D. W. Hill, died Thursday at the home of his parents on East Nineteenth street.
He was a plumber and was twenty-three years old. Death was caused by malarial rheumatism from which he had been a sufferer for some time.
The interment took place in Riverside cemetery yesterday.

HOPKINSVILLE BOY

Proclaimed as a Deserter From The Navy.

Notice has been received from North Chicago, Ill., that Raymond Hayes, of Hopkinsville, Ky., has been declared a deserter from the Naval Training Station of the Great Lakes. A deserter from the Navy is rendered forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit, or of exercising the rights of a citizen. Any person who entices or aids any person to desert or who harbors or conceals him, knowing him to be a deserter, is liable to punishment by fine and imprisonment.

Should the young man return to the service he will be given a chance to set himself right, with some mild punishment, as it is the policy of the department to save as many young men as possible who may be ignorant of the penalties following desertion.

IN CIRCUIT COURT

Commonwealth Cases Are Again Occupying Attention.

Commonwealth cases were resumed in Circuit court this week and some of the parties indicted by the last grand jury are being tried.

Charles Ferguson, a negro charged with stealing a horse from Mrs. S.
E. Young was given a sentence of from 2 to 10 years in the penitentiary Wednesday.

Dick Reese, col., charged with stealing a horse from W. Edgar Carter, of this city, was convicted and will serve an indeterminate sentence of from two to ten years.

Houston Fields, a colored boy, entered a plea of guilty of house breaking and he will be sent to the school of reform.

Supplemental Registration.

The city voters who failed to register this month by reason of sickness of themselves or families or from absence from the city, will have an opportunity to register by making affidavit in the County Clerk's office next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Oct. 30, 31 and Nov.
1st.

LEGAL FIGHT

To Secure Custody of Little Alexander Girl.

Habeas Corpus proceedings have been instituted by Mrs. Bell L. Willis and her son, Dr. L. G. Alexander, to secure the custody of Dr. Alexander's little girl, child of his divorced wife recently deceased. Mrs.
Alexander lived in Nashville and when she died gave the little girl into the keeping of a man and his wife with whom she had made her home.
The suit is to have the child transferred to her grandmother in this city. Depositions were taken here Thursday, the defense seeking to show that Dr. Alexander is not a proper person to have the custody of the child. It is admitted that his habits were bad at the time of the separation, but it is claimed by his attorneys that Dr. Alexander has entirely reformed since that time. He has married again and makes his home with his mother. The case will be tried out in Nashville.

The Ninth St. Christian Church.

Services will be held to-morrow as follows:

Bible School at 9:30 a. m.

The Lord's Supper and Preaching at 10:45 a. m.

Preaching and Song Service at 7:30
p. m.

The pastor will preach at both preaching services. The topics of the night sermon will be "Does the Town Get Morally Better?" All are invited to these services.

Swallowed Two Pins.

Two large pins were taken from the windpipe of Robt. Broome, aged 15, a Bowling Green boy who swallowed them. He suffered intense pain until the operation was performed by a local doctor.

AMUSEMENTS

"Sis Perkins"

There is so much that is good in the rural comedy drama, "Sis Perkins" that no one wonders at the unusual success that has been accorded to the play. Its realistic pictures of country life appeal to all classes, for in it is found comedy and pathos, laughter and tears. It is clean and wholesome; its humor is crisp and quaint, and its bits of home philosophy are remembered and laughed at over and over again.

The presentation of this famous play at Holland's Opera House on Monday, Oct. 30, will introduce a carefully selected company, and the engagement promises to be a record breaker. Prices, 25-35-50c.

A SHINING METAL.

There is a legend among the peasants of Cornwall in England that at night there may be observed a faintly-shining mineral among the rocks brought from the mines. That this is not pure fancy has been proved by Professor Strutt. A specimen of the mineral autunite, which is also found in Wales, was sent to him from Portugal because of its luminosity. He finds that it closely resembles artificially prepared salts of uranium, and that its luminosity is due to spontaneous radio-activity. The light it sheds is stronger than that of nitrate of uranium. Upon parting with its water of crystallization the mineral loses its luminous property.—Scientific American.

Fay Brown's Decision

By Rosalie G. Mendel

"Don't let's talk about it any more, John," pleaded Fay Brown. "It's just like going around in a circle without reaching any conclusion."

"I like you tremendously. I am even fond of you; but I don't know and never can love you in the way I must love the man I marry. Consider this final, John—there's no more to be said on the subject."

"It's easy enough to say 'consider this final.' I'll do no such thing; I'll continue asking until you accept from sheer weariness of listening to my proposals. May be you love me and don't know it yourself—such things have happened before."

After a short silence, John said: "Tell me, is there someone else?"

"No; how could there be when you monopolize about eight of my evenings a week?"

"Well, I'm glad to know I have a clean field," said John.

"A lot of good it will do you," laughed Fay.

"Let's be serious, dear heart," said John. "In a month I return to Panama to be gone for three years. When I left there to come home for my vacation two months ago, I hoped and prayed that you would go back with me. Our congenial correspondence, your inspiring letters, our beautiful friendship of four years' duration, made me feel that we were made for each other. Just as if it were written in the book—and now you say nothing but 'No, no, no.'"

"Is it the distance that frightens you, girl?"

"No; decidedly not," promptly answered Fay. "Love knows no dis-

"Is it the distance that frightens you?"

tance—with the right man I would go to the equator."

"Well, why under the sun am I not the right man?"

"I simply don't understand it myself," answered the girl. "But I can't work up any sentiment regarding you, try as I will."

"In this city you have neither kith nor kin," went on John. "There isn't a soul here who needs you. You are existing in a two-by-four hall bedroom, teaching each day a lot of unappreciative kids. Oh, Fay, come with me! I could give you so much love and life. I want you. By George! how I want you."

"Good night, John Bruce; I can't stand any more tonight. You make me unhappy—miserable. I can never do as you wish; it's absolutely impossible. Don't try to persuade me. In a weak, lonesome moment I might accept—then maybe you and I would regret it for always."

"I have never loved you—I don't love you now, and I never will love you. That's all."

"Good night, good night, little girl; good night and good bye. I am a brute and a beast to worry you. A week from today a steamer leaves for Panama with me on board. I won't see you again. It hurts too much. Write often. I need your letters."

"Good bye—and God bless you, Johnny," said Fay as he wrung her hand.

Six weeks later Fay received a cablegram from Panama stating, "John Bruce's leg amputated; dangerously ill; wished you to be notified. Signed, Chas. Garthier."

Fay quickly answered: "Inform John Bruce I can't stay away, because—because I love—him."

An Englishman's Retort. "He had just arrived from old England and his friend, a prominent clubman, was showing him the city. In our suburbs they noticed a neatly fixed-up candy store, which greatly surprised the stranger, and he inquired how that could be made to pay. The clubman remarked in answer: "Why, I don't believe he can make his salt here."

The Englishman seemed bewildered, and adjusting his monocle, said: "How strange! Do you expect a man in this country to make salt in a sweet shop?"

Haw! Haw!

Reversed. Tourist (to Indian standing beside a pile of arrow heads, etc.)—Heap scrap?

Indian—Nope! Scrap heap. I'm just waiting to sell the lot to the first eastern junk dealer that comes along this way.—Puck.

Dumb Chills and Fever.

Douglasville, Tex.—"Five years ago I was caught in the rain at the wrong time," writes Miss Elma Rutherford, of Douglasville, "and from that time was taken with dumb chills and fevers, and suffered more than I can tell. I tried everything that I thought would help, and had four different doctors, but got no relief, so I began to take Cardui. Now I feel better than in many months." Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That's the secret of its 50 years of success. As a tonic there is nothing in the drug store like it. As a remedy for women's ills, it has no equal. Try it. Price $1.00.

Trouble With Ladies' Watches.

"We always have a vast deal more trouble with women than with men about the watches they carry," said a jeweler. "No matter how expensive a lady's watch or how correctly made it seems to need regulation and repair about twice as often as a man's watch. Of course most women forget to wind their watches, but aside from that they wear them so irregularly that the watch has the same environment about three days in seven."

Who Was There That You Knew?
The shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is the father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War
Taken by the greatest photographer in the world at that time, they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried for 50 years—they are buried there in a vault in the city of Washington, and it was discovered by the photographer's son, J. H. Morgan, that they were there. The collection is now being placed within the walls of the United States Capitol, and is the most valuable collection of photographs of the Civil War ever made. The United States Government has paid for three of the pictures.

12 of These FREE
For the Cost of Mailing
In order to give you some idea of the greatness of this work, we will send you 12 superb reproductions of the photographs free of charge in a handsome book. These photographs are very precious and valuable, but you need only 10 cents to cover the cost of mailing. The book is only interesting from a historical standpoint, but, framed, make a splendid addition to your library walls. At the same time we will tell you how the battle of Gettysburg was fought, and the story of the Civil War. This also is a very valuable book. The United States Government has paid for three of the pictures. Send the coupon at once.

Send me the 12 pictures and the book for the cost of mailing.

VIVID DEMONSTRATION

Of How Wild Animals of Africa
Are Captured Alive to be Given Here.

When the English residents of E at Africa heard that the Buffalo Jones Exploration party was coming to Africa to lasso lions and other wild animals, such as rhinoceri, they laughed with glee, but when the American cowboys returned from the interior with a full grown lioness they piped another tune. Chief of these cowboys with this expedition was Ambrose Means, a devil-may-care sort of chap, who is absolutely fearless to any and all danger. It was he who cast the first rope that caught the first lion ever lassoed. When the Young Buffalo Wild West exhibits in Hopkinsville afternoon and night Wednesday, Nov. 1, AMBROSE MEANS will appear in the arena and will give vivid demonstrations of how the wild animals of the African veldt were captured alive. Means was the big feature of the sportsman's show, held in Madison Square Garden, New York, last winter. Annie Oakley, the peerless wing and rifle shot, is the bright particular star of the Young Buffalo Wild West Show.

Other artists who have achieved international fame and whose names appear upon the programs of this aggregation are Curtis Liston, the undefeated champion marksman of the world; and Capt. Stewart, remarkable sharpshooters; Buffalo Vernon, the man who leaps from the back of a rapidly moving horse to the head of a steer and throws the beast by a quick turn of the steer's horns; Montana Jack, the world's greatest lariat thrower; Capt. Hardin and his company of Boy Scouts.

said to be the first drilled body of young men in the world. There are over 700 men and women with this show, which is claimed to be the largest of its character in the world. A big street parade will be given at 10:00 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition, at which time the Indians, Russian Cossacks, Mexican rurales, Northwestern Canadian Mounted Police, U. S. Cavalrymen, and other representatives of the world's most daring men and women will be seen. Col. Stewart's 20-ox team is a feature of the street demonstration.

LIFE AN UNCERTAIN GAME

Systems for Reaching Old Age as Doubtful as Those for Acquiring Wealth.

The late John W. Gates, who was frequently spoken of as a "plunger," played Wall street on a system, and was thirty or forty million dollars ahead of the game when he died at the age of fifty-six.

Thomas A. Edison, luckily among those guests who escaped unharmed from the Carlton hotel fire in London, is now sixty-four. He also has his "system," applied to living, by which he declares he expects to attain the patriarchal age of one hundred and fifty.

A man died in Minnesota lately only eleven days short of the century mark. As is too often the case, this near-centenarian was a hard drinker and an inveterate smoker. Maybe if he had lived a temperate life he might have rounded out the full hundred years.

But it all goes to show what an uncertain game life is. Some men take things easy and pass off in their prime. Edison works 16 or 18 hours a day, intends never to retire, and is going stronger than ever at sixty-four.

The only positive assurance the wizard inventor can have in regard to the long span he looks to, and which all the world cordially wishes him, is that he has achieved 150 years' worth of work already.

MARRIAGE.

Marriage, which has been the bourn of so many narratives, is still a great beginning, as it was to Adam and Eve, who kept their honeymoon in Eden, but had their first little one among the thorns and thistles of the wilderness. It is still the beginning of the home epic—the gradual conquest or irremediable loss of that complete union which makes the advancing years a climax, and age the harvest of sweet memories in common.

Some set out, like Crusaders of old, with a glorious equipment of hope and enthusiasm, and get broken by the way, wanting patience with each other and the world.—George Eliot.

THE DYSPHEPTIC'S OPPORTUNITY.

Among what may be called death-bed jests that of the Rev. James Guthrie of Stirling, one of the Covenanters martyrs, deserves a high place. Lord Guthrie recalls the story in "From a Northern Window." Mr. Guthrie was executed at the cross in High street, Edinburgh. The night before he asked for cheese for supper. His friends wondered, for the physicians had forbidden him to eat cheese. But he said, with a smile, "I am beyond the hazard of all earthly diseases."

PRINCESS A MOTOR "FAN."

Princess Victoria, the only unmarried daughter of the late King Edward and Queen Alexandra, is said to be very much interested in motoring and this summer has been seen every day at Harrogate, starting out for a trip through the country. She has been taking the cure there this summer, which may, however, not mean that she is sick, as it is fashionable to take the "cure" after a winter in society.

HE WAS DIFFERENT KIND

Magnate Makes Wrong Guess on College Man Who Applies for Job.

The young man entered the magnate's office.

"So you want a job, do you?" the latter gruffly remarked. "Just out of college, no doubt?"

"Yes."

The magnate sized him up.

"Think you know it all, eh?"

"No, sir."

"Imagining you own the earth, no doubt?"

"No."

"Believe yourself to be a much better man than your father?"

"No."

"What was the subject of your graduating essay?"

"Human Dynamos."

"Remarkably practical. Too clever to do any real work, of course?"

"No. I want to learn the business."

The sneer on the magnate's face deepened.

"O, I've heard of you college smarties. The newspapers are all on to you. If I gave you a job in a week you'd be showing me how to run the business, wouldn't you?"

"No, sir."

The magnate stared at him.

"All right, son. That will be your desk over yonder. You'll get $25 a week as a starter, with an increase as soon as you familiarize yourself with the work. Good luck to you."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Cream of News Compiled and Collected
From all Sources.

One of the most significant features of the Campaign is the interest that Judge Alex. P. Humphrey, of Louisville, is manifesting in the election of Senator McCreary and the entire Democratic ticket. Judge Humphrey will preside at the big Democratic rally to be held on October 23rd, when Governor Harmon, of Ohio, will speak in behalf of the State ticket. Judge Humphrey is the leader of the Kentucky bar, and he has been named as a probable successor to the late Judge John M. Harlan on the Supreme Bench. No man in Louisville has a larger personal following, particularly among the independent element, and his support of Governor McCreary and his associates will be productive of excellent results.

Christian county lands are just as good as in other counties where prices are higher. Cheap farming lands around the city help Hopkinsville.

Senator Bradley is carrying a terrible burden. He is trying to make the people believe that he is enthusiastic for O'Rear, when he knows that his defeat is certain, and he is undertaking the Herculean task of defending the Administration of Governor Willson. This is a job that would daunt a much braver man than Bradley, but his title to the Senatorship has been assailed, and he feels that he must make the best showing possible if for no other reason than to defend himself.

Judge J. A. Sullivan, of Richmond, is doing valiant work for the Democracy on the stump. He is the author of the Sullivan school law which has given such impetus to education all over the State. Judge Sullivan is one of Governor McCreary's closest personal friends, and it is a labor of love for him to canvass the State in the interest of his neighbor and friend.

Ex-Congressman John S. Rhea is taking an active part in politics for the first time in many years. He has lost none of his eloquence or magnetism. His speeches have been received with great enthusiasm, and there is more demand upon the speakers' bureau for his presence, than it is possible for him to meet if he were to speak a half dozen times a day from now until the end of the contest.

The firm stand the officials and business men took against night riding advertised Hopkinsville all over the country and made even the night riders respect her people more.

Freeing the turnpikes in 1902 started the prosperous era for Hopkinsville and the new roads built since have given additional prosperity.

Strayed or Stolen

In June or July last, one yellow Jersey heifer, about two years old, dehorned. Reward for information.

Dr. L. J. Harris,
Hopkinsville, Ky., R. R. 5.

The lawyers for the defense are doing all they can to make good the threat that it will take all of the year to get a jury in the McNamara case. The entire venire of 125 has been exhausted and another will have to be summoned.

The opposition to the Democratic city ticket does not appear to be formidable. The Democrats will be greatly surprised if they fail to elect a single nominee in any ward where a nomination has been made. The attack on the Democratic administration for a term of years has done much to bring Democrats together and the party is conceded to be stronger than it has ever been in the city.

All signs point to a real Democratic landslide this year and Hopkinsville will take a hand in the victory by electing six Democratic councilmen.

Kentucky will be redeemed from Republican rule when the polls close on November 7th.

A church row in Denver, Colo., resulted in a free fight during which the pastor, Rev. W. S. Rudolph, was thrown through a window.

Lake At Crofton.

The L. & N. Railroad Co. is building a series of concrete dams near Crofton that are expected to form a lake of 30 acres, to furnish an adequate water supply for all trains. The dams are being built by the Meacham Contracting Co. The railroad company bought a farm for the purpose. The lake is to be stocked with fish and the Crofton people expect to derive great pleasure from it.

Mrs. Thompson Elected.

Mrs. W. H. Thompson, of Lexington, was elected State Regent of the D. A. R. at the Bardstown meeting this week.

Mrs. R. H. Cunningham, Henderson, was endorsed unanimously for Vice-President General. No secretary was elected, and Mrs. Thompson holds over until she makes her report and becomes Regent.

A unanimous vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Ben Johnson, the retiring Regent for her faithful and efficient services as Regent.

FINE STOCK.

Nearly 300 Head to be Sold Here Nov. 1.

On Wednesday, Nov. 1, the date of the Young Buffalo's Wild West Show in Hopkinsville, the management of the show will offer for sale about 250 head of stock, consisting of draft horses, buggy, saddle, and other horses and mules, all of which is said to be the best stock ever seen with a traveling organization or otherwise.

It is customary with circuses and other shows to sell stock at the close of the season rather than to go to the expense of wintering same and this show closes in this city. The organization has some of the best stock obtainable and a rare opportunity presents itself to the citizens of Hopkinsville and surrounding country to make their purchases at right prices.

The stock will be disposed of at private sale on the grounds during the day and delivered after the performance.

Glidden Accident.

Tifton, Ga., Oct. 25.—Chairman S. M. Butler, of the Contest Board of the Glidden Tour, was killed, and Referee P. J. Walker and wife were seriously injured when the big Cunningham pacemaker turned turtle near Cordele to-day.

Longest Name.

Miss Katherine Ottorordemgentschenfelde, of Terre Haute, Ind., whose name was the longest ever recorded on the marriage records in that city, has changed her name to Mrs. Louis Kalen. She is 23 years old and is an attractive little woman.

Monster Rally at Seebree.

Seebree, Ky., Oct. 25.—One of the largest democratic rallies ever held in Webster county was held here to-day. Thousands of strangers were in the city, the day practically being one of holiday gala. W. E. Bourland of Dixon, N. Powell Taylor of Henderson, W. O. Head of Louisville and H. V. McChesney were among the speakers. Two hundred gallons of burgoo were served free.

Dr. Hancock President.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 25.—The annual meeting of the Kentucky State Medical Association was adjourned today following the election of Dr. D. O. Hancock, of Henderson, president of the organization, and Dr. A. T. McCormack, of Bowling Green, to succeed himself as secretary.

Todd's New Jailer.

Elkton, Ky., Oct. 26.—Zene A. Troutt has been appointed by County Judge Duffy as Jailer of Todd county to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William F. Glenn. Mr. Troutt is a well-known farmer and Democrat and has never before held office.

Socialist Talks.

Walter Lanfersiek, Socialist candidate for Governor, spent Thursday in the city, and made several street talks during the day and at night, speaking from a box stand in the street.

Negro Segregation.

Norfolk, Va., October 26.—The new segregation ordinance restricting the residence of negroes to certain streets and localities was declared unconstitutional by Justice Duncan yesterday. The court held the question was one of taste rather than law. The case was appealed and will go to the Supreme Court.

DOCTORS FAILED TO

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."

—Mrs. HERMAN STEIN, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it.

It is free and always helpful.

Trigg Veterans.

Following are the names and ages of the old veterans, who rode in the "old soldiers ring" for the most graceful horseback rider at the Stock Show last Thursday: C. T. THREE DAYS AVIATION MEETING

Hopkinsville, Ky., Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, November 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

By the Hopkinsville Aviation Club, the only Aviation Club south of the Ohio River.

Chas. O. Prowse, the Hopkinsville boy who by his persistent perseverance and genius has made the Biplane the Conqueror of the air.

A Southern boy who has demonstrated to the talented of the East what Southern brains can do. A prophet who has honor in his own country.

He returns to the people who believe in him, to prove that he has succeeded after these months of toil and disappointments.

He will demonstrate without doubt that man has conquered the air, with a Biplane of his own make.

JIMMIE WARD
THE DARE DEVIL

The same Jimmie Ward who gave New York a thrill. A man of national reputation. In this day of modern inventions one hardly knows what to expect next. Hopkinsville, the liveliest town of its size south of the Ohio River, has men who are alive to meet the issues of the day, who keep up with the procession, has arranged for this meet, and without doubt will have the greatest crowd on these days that has ever been within her gates.

These flights will take place at the Aviation field and there will be three flights each day promptly between one and three o'clock. Biplanes and Aeroplanes will soar in the air with the grace of great vultures.

Never perhaps again will such an opportunity present itself to you to see heavier than air machines float in the air.

Since you were a child you have wondered if this great feat would ever be accomplished.

COME AND SEE WHAT THE GENIUS OF MAN HAS DONE.

TWO FIRES.

Both Small Blazes And Losses Not Heavy.

The fire department was called out twice yesterday morning within two hours. The first call was to the residence of Willis Mayes, col., corner Twelfth and Water streets. This blaze was extinguished in short order and the damage is small. Two hours later L. A. Johnson's coal house, corner Fifteenth and water, was discovered in flames and the building burned in a very few minutes.

THUS A MISSION EXPANDED.

Ten years ago the Rev. P. N. Tan, now the rector of the only self-supporting native church of the Protestant Episcopal mission in China—St. Saviour's, Shanghai—came to Wush with two boys and lived on his boat until he could establish a mission. He was soon joined by the Rev. G. P. Mosher. The work has expanded, as it does in all stations where men can be supplied, until there are now two compounds—on one a dispensary and residence, on the other the chapel, a woman's building, a residence for the missionaries, and soon there will be a church and a catechist's school.—From the Spirit of Missions.

TRUE AUTHORITY.

Self-government, with tenderness. Here you have the condition of all authority over children. The mother should consider herself as her child's sun, a changeless and ever-radiant world, whither the small, restless creature, quick at tears and laughter, light, fickle, passionate, full of storms, may come for fresh stores of light and warmth, of calm and courage. The mother represents the divinity to childhood. The religion of a child depends on what its mother and father are, not on what they say.

ONE BIRD'S LABOR OF LOVE

Naturalist Watches Thrushes Building Their Nest, Where the Female Did the Work.

The other day I sat for an hour watching a pair of wood thrushes engaged in building their nest near "Slab-side." I say a pair, though the female really did all the work. The male hung around and was evidently an interested spectator of the proceeding. The mother bird was very busy bringing and placing the material, which consisted mainly of dry maple leaves which the winter had made thin and soft, and which were strewn over the ground all about. How pretty she looked running over the ground, now in shade, now in sunshine, searching for the leaves that were just to her fancy! Sometimes she would seize two or more and with a quick, soft flight bear them to the fork of a little maple sapling.

Every five or six minutes during her absence the male would come and inspect her work. He would look it over, arrange a leaf or two with his beak, and then go his way. Twice he sat down in the nest and worked his feet and pressed it with his breast, as if shaping it. When the female found him there on her return he quickly got out of her way.

But he brought no material, he did no needful thing, he was a bird of leisure. The female did all the drudgery, and with what an air of grace and ease she did it! So soft of wing, so trim of form, so pretty of pose and so gentle in every movement! It was evidently no drudgery to her, the material was handy, and the task one of love.—Country Life in America.

NOT ALL ARE LIKE THIS

Example of the Cold-Blooded New York Landlady Probably an Exception.

"Ever since coming to New York I have heard about the cold-blooded metropolitan landlady," remarked the woman-who-halls-from-the-west, but it was not until my colored laundress lost her son that I rubbed elbows with the genuine calloused article. The boy was drowned while bathing in the Hudson, and a policeman brought home his few garments and dilapidated old shoes, with the word that the body would hardly be recovered.

"The woman's first thought was that she wanted her husband to know of their loss and come to her comfort. He is employed as kitchen helper in a boarding house run by a woman in the north end of Manhattan. I telephoned to his employer, and she calmly replied that the man could not come to the telephone, no servants were permitted to do so; nor would she give the message to him. 'He is particularly busy today, and I cannot spare him,' was her harsh reply. Rather hotly I informed her that I would immediately telegraph him, and she replied that the message would not be delivered until after working hours.

"Later I learned that I should have reported the matter to the police department and a policeman would have been sent to inform the father; but as the matter stood, the distracted mother had to wait for the comfort of her husband until 'after working hours,' nearly ten hours, at that."

How Divers Fish.

When diving lessons are going on at the Newport Training Station there is always fish for supper. The thick black mud at the bottom of the bay is dotted with flounders, big fellows that the divers easily capture by hand and bring up without any trouble. It is hard to walk on the sea floor without stepping on them, where they lie half buried in the ooze. All the man under water has to do is to stoop and pick them up. Being a sluggish fish, they make very little resistance and are hauled up to the surface by the tail or fins without any fuss. Big eels, too, are plentiful, fat, green fellows thick as a man's arm. It would take a stout net to hold them and no diver dares to tackle one, no matter how much his mouth waters for eels stewed in milk. The muscular contortions of such eels as inhabit Newport harbor would be pretty sure to foul the lifeline or airhose and would probably result in the diver's death, so the men in the diving suits confine themselves to the commonplace flounder.

The Order of Precedence.

The fair Englishwoman looked puzzled. "How do you manage," she asked, "about going out to dinners and about presentations and all that sort of thing? You know no order of precedence, don't you know?"

"Oh, mistake not," cheerfully replied the American. "We have, indeed." "I have not been able to discover it. What is the basis of it?"

"Oh, we go alphabetically, don't you know?"

Companions in Tribulation.

"Who are the two men who shake hands and look sympathetic every time that prima donna's name is mentioned?"

"One is her manager and the other is her husband."

In the Interest of Economy.

"I suppose they will have combination accidents next."

"What do you mean?"

"Where an airship drops on an automobile and the automobile does the rest."

HIS DEATH LEAVES BIG GAP

Collins, Walter in House of Commons Smoking Room, Had Known Generations of Members.

Scarcely any figure could have departed from the house of commons and left so great a gap in the intimate life of members as has been occasioned by the death of Collins, the writer in the upper smoking room. For something like fifty years he had been in the service of the house, and he had known whole generations of members, who looked upon him with almost affection. The upper smoking room is the true center of serious gossip in the house of commons. It is the place where men speak their minds to one another. Collins, in moving about among the tables, heard all the gossip, and no man was so infallible in interpreting the real opinion of members—an opinion not always expressed in more public quarters.

Some few weeks ago a garden party to the staff and police of the house of commons, Mr. T. P. O'Connor made general reference to the unique position of Collins. He told how, when Mr. Lloyd George was in doubt about the passing of his budget, when all the political authorities told him one thing or another, he went to Collins, as the best informed politician, to know what ought to be done.

Collins was an ideal waiter, knowing the preferences of his regular customers and needing no order from them when they entered the room over which he ruled. He seemed to have the secret of perpetual youth. His round, sunny, boyish face, his alertness and his uniform cheerfulness gave to him an appearance of juvenility which belied all statements as to his age. He had the true Irish temperament, was witty and ready, and was never known to be "out of sorts." No man was more generously treated or more highly respected by his clients.—Westminster Gazette.

NO USE OF BEING A SPORT

Sullivan Offered to Flip Coin to See Whether He Should Serve Ten Years or Nothing.

This is the sad story of one of the most thoroughbred sports known to the history of hazards. His name was Sullivan, and he had blue eyes and red hair, with a brogue to match his coloring. John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer, met him in prison in South Africa at the time when Hammond and other men were held as captives by the Boers in connection with the Jameson raid. The engineer and the Irishman became well acquainted.

"Probably you wonder why I'm in here," said Sullivan, one day, when the thermometer had gone as high as 115 in the shade. "Well, I'll tell you; I got into a little trouble, and I pleaded guilty to it."

"Five years!" said the judge.

"Your honor!" I cried out, "I'll throw heads and tails with you to see whether it shall be ten years or nothing."

"And would you believe it, Mr. Hammond? That judge got mad and added on five years, anyhow. And now I'm serving that extra five years. What's the use of being a sport?"—Popular Magazine.

Geography Lesson From a Shrimp.

Dr. Gaillard, a member of the Tilho mission, discovered in Lake Tchad numerous shrimps of a species well known to naturalists, but hitherto found only in the Nile and its tributaries. This discovery leads physical geographers to assert that the basins of the Nile and of Lake Tchad were once in communication. For it is impossible to imagine that the very fragile eggs or larvae of Palaeomon niloticus, as this shrimp is called, could have been transported from one basin to the other by aquatic birds in the manner that seeds are carried.

The topography of the intervening region is not yet sufficiently known to make it possible to assert certainly that there was once a great lake or marsh between the Nile and Lake Tchad or that a tributary of the great river once took its rise in the Saharan lake, but there is a vast depression about the Bah-el-Gazel region that makes this hypothesis seem probable.

The Fish Hawk's Warning.

"The fish hawk tells us when the shad begin to run up the river," said a Gloucester fisherman. "We have learned that it isn't much use to cast nets, no matter how mild the weather may be, until Mr. Fish Hawk swoops down on us."

"When he comes sailing up the bay, we know it's time to get to work. Lots of farmers down Jersey would never think to start planting until the fish hawks come. I don't believe they have ever been later than April 12, though. They work their way up the coast from Florida and the other southern waters early in March, when the fish begin to come north. They follow the big schools of herring, as a rule, because the herring swim close together, and the hawk has easy picking. The shad follow the herring, and when the fish hawk comes we know the shad are not far behind."—Fishing Gazette.

Her Explanation.

"Mammy, dear," said little Matty, "what is a stepmother?"

"Why, Matty," replied his mother, "were I to die and your dad should marry again, the lady would be a stepmother."

"Oh, I see," remarked Matty; "you'd step out and she'd step in."

"That's it,"—San Francisco West.

MAKING SURE THING OF IT

Now That Money is Scarce, the New York Gamblers Are Taking No Chances.

Real money is becoming criminally scarce with the gambling fraternity here, says the New York Press. The stopping of racing cut off one source of income, and the recent exposures of the crooked games which are being operated, broadly speaking, in every New York gambling house have also lessened the boob crop. A hundred dollar bill, flashed near the corner of Broadway and 43rd street would probably cause a dangerous stampede. The old-timers are resorting to every possible means to get in the money.

"I got a sucker," said one of the veterans to another the other day. "He used to know me when I was city clerk of Jiggs Crossings, and he has plenty of confidence in me. I'll get him into a three-handed game, work in a cold deck, and we'll take his crop."

The other old-timer objected that both men lacked capital. "We got our 'fronts,' but it will never do to drop them," said he. Without diamonds and good clothes a professional gambler is in a bad way. But the proposer of the sucker harvest was insistent.

"This guy'll tumble for good money," said he. "Now, you'll me can get four or five hundred dollars on our ice. That's enough for working capital. We'll work along, and when I get a good chance I'll send in the cold hand. I'll deal you four kings and give him four queens, and he'll bet his head off."

"He's to have four queens, hey?" said the other. "And me four kings? All right, I'll go you. But I'm going to go through that deck first and take all the aces out."

NOT OVERCOME BY SORROW

Young Man's Novel Test of Sweetheart's Affection Satisfied Him on One Point.

Alphonse Marron of Paris, a young man of independent means, has found a novel way of testing his fiancée's affection, with the result that the engagement is now broken off.

He called on the girl, Mile. Suzanne Roix, and after a few minutes' conversation, during which he affected great mental depression, he asked her for a drink of water. As he took the glass from her hand he produced a fly phial from his pocket, and, emptying the contents into the water, drank it off before she could hinder him. His face then contracted and he sank a helpless mass on the floor. He had only time to beg his sweetheart's forgiveness before he expired, as she thought.

Unfortunately for Suzanne, Alphonse was not even unconscious, and he was able to watch the effect on her of his own death. Without the slightest show of sorrow she hastened to the telephone and rang up the police station to say that a suicide had been committed in her apartments, and begging that the body might be removed as soon as possible.

This was too much for Alphonse, who promptly resuscitated himself and left the house, after telling his former sweetheart what he thought of her.

By His Own Confession.

When Joseph F. Johnston arrived in Washington as a member of the United States senate from the glorious and gallant State of Alabama, says The Popular Magazine, Senator Burrows, of Michigan, took a great fancy to him. One day in the cloak-room Burrows turned to another senator and said:

"DuPont, stand up. I want you to meet Johnston, of Alabama."

The man from Delaware rose to his feet.

"DuPont," said Johnston, taking the proffered hand, "I believe you're the infernal Yankee who shot me at Cedar Creek."

"Well, well!" commented the Delaware senator, somewhat puzzled. "What makes you think so?"

"I see by the two pages of your biography in the Congressional Directory," explained Johnston, "that you commanded practically every regiment in the Union Army during the Civil war. Some infernal Yankee shot me, and I think it was you."

Remarkable Tumble.

The Yankee tourist was in great form. His tales of the terrible scenes he had witnessed raised his hearers' hair.

Then the quiet little Englishman spoke.

"Saw a man once," he said slowly, "fall off the top window sill in a building 20 stories high. Never hurt him a bit—just annoyed, that was all."

"Nonsense!" they cried and would have jeered him to scorn.

"Fact!" said the little man. "Up there he was, cleaning the window, and he fell right off."

"That's rot!" exclaimed the man from the states. "Tell me how he did it!"

"Well, you see," drawled the quiet one, "it was rather lucky for him—but he happened to fall inside!"—London Answers.

Her Anxiety.

"Could you wait on me before the others?" asked the woman in the drug store. "I am in a great hurry." The drug clerk complied and filled her prescription immediately. "Thank you so much," she said. "I am afraid that Mido will awake before I return and miss me."

FOR THOSE ABOUT TO MOVE

These Few Little Hints May or May Not Prove to Have a Practical Value.

Never order the moving van to be at your door before 7:00 a. m. It annoys father to have his bed carried into the street while he is still yawning it.

In packing up always stow away first father's razor, shaving brush and mug, change of linen and fancy vests. Bury them at the bottom of the largest packing case beneath the books and the bed quilts. This will cause father to go without shaving for a week, and the new neighbors will take him for one of the regular moving van men.

Be sure to have your best pieces of furniture taken out of the van first and into the house last. For by your furniture are you judged. However, if you have no best furniture, or if your rent is overdue, move at night.

Be sure to tell your husband where you are moving to. This saves trouble and annoyance. Many a man has left home in the morning only to discover when he returned at night that his wife had moved during the day without leaving her change of address. Before home can be a source of joy and comfort to him, a man must know where it is.

After the moving van men start to carry a heavily loaded bureau up the stairs be on hand to warn them to be careful of the walls. This will annoy the men, and you will discover how fluent is their speech; also how profane.

Remember that the landlord owns the window screens, shades and gas fixtures.

The day before, the very day, and for a week after moving cold boiled ham is an excellent substitute for food. It is easy to serve. You don't even have to add a little hot water.—Detroit Free Press.

BRAND NOT IN THE MARKET

Mrs. Newlywed Had Done Her Best, but Black Coffee Was a Thing Unattainable.

After the honeymoon came the cozy flat. Young Mr. Benedict was mighty proud of his wife, even if she was from the country, and eager to show her to his cronies.

"Dulcinea, dear," he said one morning, "I want to bring dear old Tom up for dinner and good old Dick and Alice old Harry. Want 'em to see you and taste your cookery. I've told them all about your dishes. There's just one special thing I don't want you to forget. It's the black coffee to wind up with. Tom's particularly fond of good black coffee, and for that matter so am I."

Promptly at 6 came Mr. Benedict and cronies three. Mr. B. showed his guests into the parlor, while he made hasty tracks for the gas range neighbor hood and kissed the cook again, privately.

"Well, how about everything, little woman. Got all the stuff together?" "Ye—yes, dear," replied small Mrs. B. with just a shade of reservation in her voice. "I've got the crown of chops and the peas and a salad—oh, a hee—autiful salad—and I've baked some little biscuits! There's only one thing I simply couldn't get (I do hope you aren't too disappointed), for I went to every store in the neighborhood. It's black coffee, dear. I hunted and hunted, truly. Not a single shop has anything but brown!"

His Deduction.

Eugene Conner, son of F. D. Conner of the Guardian Bank, who lives in Roxbury road, East Cleveland, is a stultious lad, says the Leader. Moreover, he is given to deduce his own facts without much scientific investigation. He attends the Prospect school in the Stamberger village, longing for the time when he may attend Shaw High.

Eugene's teacher asked him one day this week what the principal product of the ood was.

"Codliver oil," was the instant reply. He knew that. And he never did like it.

"And what is it we get from the seal?" continued the teacher.

"Sealing wax," responded the youngster.

Aeroplane in War Game.

For the first time the aeroplane has been used in France to register the results of firing practice by siege artillery batteries. Six batteries were firing at the Chalons camp the other day, and an attempt was made to register the results by means of a biplane. The air was in such a boiling state owing to the heat that the biplane proved useless. Lieutenant Rose then mounted a monoplane, flew over the line of batteries at a height of 500 yards, and in a flight of three minutes was able to observe the fire of the six batteries. Returning, he dropped cards at the feet of the officers in command on which he had noted the results. This task has previously been carried out from captive balloons.

Came Back for His Money.

Sixteen years ago a worker at Messrs. Siggers' machine works at Killoe, Dumfriesshire, left the firm's employment omitting to take with him 14s. 7d. wages due. He spent four years in England, and afterwards joined the army, serving 12 years, mostly abroad. A few days ago the man, whose name is Calligan, called again at Killoe and claimed his money, established his right to it, and got it.—The Scotsman.

GOOD ROADS

Question Ably Discussed at Milwaukee Convention.

The following is an extract from a speech delivered recently at Milwaukee, Wis., by P. V. DeGraw, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, and touches upon the question of good roads:

Now, as this is Good Roads Day, I am going to say a few words on the question of good roads, and then I am through. We have to do with good roads, too, as you all know. The Post Office Department, especially this branch of it under the jurisdiction of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, is greatly interested in the work incident to good roads. While it is perhaps generally understood that the Department requires that all roads upon which rural delivery is established, shall be maintained in condition to be traveled with facility and safety at all seasons of the year, I very much fear that the reasons for this requirement are not very well understood or appreciated. Then again, people of various communities have different standards and what would be considered a good or fair road in one section of the country, would be considered a very poor or bad one in another.

When service is suspended on a rural route complaint is sometimes made by those who are thus deprived of the delivery of mail by rural carriers that the road is being traveled, and if others can get over it, why not the rural carrier. But such complaints lose sight of the fact that a rural carrier is required daily to travel his route, varying from fifteen to thirty miles in length, without regard to climatic conditions, while some of the people may, by dint of floundering and plodding, get through what would be reasonably classed as an impassable road, or might get over a stretch of road four or five miles in length. Rural carriers cannot be and are not expected to travel roads hub deep in mud, or in such conditions as to cause great hardship to the carrier's animals and loss of time to the carrier.

FORBES MFG. CO.,

Incorporated.

The interest of the Department in the good roads question is paramount for the reason that the 41,116 rural carriers employed are daily traveling more than one million miles of roads, and in the course of a year those carriers travel more than 300,000,000 miles of roads. It is, therefore, essential that the roads be maintained in good condition for travel in order to insure uninterrupted and expeditious delivery and collection of mail on rural routes on an even and dependable schedule. In the maintenance of a service many millions of dollars are spent each year, and the Post Office Department expects its beneficiaries to see that the highways are maintained in proper condition. Some five or six years ago the Department adopted the policy of insisting that the roads on which rural delivery is in operation shall be kept in good repair, else to withdraw service therefrom; and also to co-operate with the State Highway Commissions, Good Roads Associations, local highway officials and others interested in securing the improvement of highways, and to encourage postmasters and rural carriers to do likewise. As a result of its policy and co-operation, it is believed that more work has been accomplished and more money appropriated and expended and more up-to-date highway laws enacted during the past five or six years than during any other period in the country's history. The Department very much desires that postmasters, rural carriers and substitute carriers shall not only constitute themselves apostles of good roads and spread the propaganda, but that they shall, by their works, arouse interest and emulation in others. Many postmasters and rural carriers have been instrumental in forming good roads clubs and associations, the results of which have been vast improvement in the condition of the highways, and, in several notable incidents, the appropriation of enormous sums of money for the rebuilding and improvement of entire county highway systems.

While these improvements have redounded to the greatest benefit of the rural delivery service, the direct and indirect material benefits to the farmers and other rural residents have been incalculable. Strange as it may seem, farmers do not fully appreciate the value of good roads to them in that it enables them to get their produce to market at any time during any season of the year with ease and facility and with a minimum of wear and tear on their animals and wagons. When the roads are poor farmers are unable to take advantage of the best market prices, but can only do their hauling during the dry season, or when the roads are dried out. The saving in the cost of horses where the roads are improved is enormous, for there can be no doubt that good roads prolong the usefulness of horses at least one-third. Then again, good roads are not only an indication of thrift, but they certainly enhance farm values and encourage and promote rural social intercourse and interest.

The fact that but comparatively few of the counties throughout the Union are financially able to undertake the building of the highest class of macadam roads, is appreciated, but this should neither discourage nor deter them in their efforts to procure good roads. It has been fully demonstrated that the best of earth and clay roads may be had through the use of the split-log-drag and other implements for grading and ditching roads. Instructions and advice on road building or materials are to be had upon application to the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., and skilled highway engineers are detailed by the Department of Agriculture under certain conditions to furnish practical demonstrations in road building. Besides, the various State Highway Commissions and Boards are all ready and willing to lend their aid. To my mind there is little, if any, excuse in the majority of cases for bad roads.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR HORSE BUYERS

Or any one who wants horses and mules for all purposes such as draft, family, driving, riding or hearse teams or horses of any description. This opportunity presents itself to the citizens of Hopkinsville but once in a lifetime. The Young Buffalo Wild West Show which exhibits in this city Wednesday, November 1st, closes its season that date going from here to Peoria, Ill., which is its winter quarters. According to the usual custom of circuses it will sell the greater portion of its stock at the close of the season to save the heavy winter expenses and is willing to make a sacrifice in prices, the saving being made to the show in the care and feed of the stock during the winter months.

As quoted by some newspapers and good judges throughout the country the stock of the Young Buffalo Wild West organization are fit models for the popular painting entitled "The County Fair."

It is well known fact that show horses must positively be of the best not only physically but in appearance and otherwise for the fact that work is much harder to stand and more severe than any other work, therefore the stock must be of the very best. The Young Buffalo Shows prides itself upon having absolutely the best stock on the road. Stock will be sold at private sale on the grounds during the day and delivered after the performance. In all there are about 250 head.

No need to look for old crippled or broken down animals as the Young Buffalo Wild West does not possess one of that kind
